

Exceptional circumstances require exceptional actions.

Health is our greatest asset and doing everything necessary to maintain it is our top priority, for our employees and for our business partners.

Since the beginning of the spread of the coronavirus, we have continuously reorganized our activities in compliance with all the requirements of the Ministry of Health in order to maintain our business operations in all departments and safe workplaces.

Since then, our employees have been working at home or in compliance with hygiene measures with sufficient physical distance from each other.

However, more drastic measures are needed to contain the further spread of the virus.

The Italian government has decreed that all non-essential production activities must be stopped until the 13.04.2020. For this reason our company headquarter in Bolzano is closed.

However, our goal is to be there for our customers and business partners in this special moment, which is why we have made the necessary arrangements so that you can continue to reach your contact person.

Our employees are happy to be there for you.

It'll be alright!
